August 11, 1975

Dear Mr. Weisberg,

Thank you, first, for your letter of August 4. As you were not able to find the National Tattler article entitled "These Men Killed J.F.K.," I am sending you my copy enclosed for whatever it is worth. When I wrote you that I found some of the Tattler articles interesting, I merely meant that some of them covered material I had not previously seen (such as Joe Cooper's story and mention of Eugene N. Brading/Braden) - on the whole, admittedly, the articles are oriented towards a certain type of audience as is the paper itself.

Also enclosed, please find an article from the rock & roll magazine The Rolling Stone on the King case which I send for your & Jim Lesar's interest - (if only to show you how certain elements of the press are handling that case.)

In going through some of the papers I have collected, I also came across something you may or may not have run into. I send it as a curio. Enclosed is a small paper which movie theatres handed out in New York when they showed Mark Lane's bid for cinematic immortality and fiscal security, "Executive Action."

I have compiled a brief list of some of the articles I have collected which, if you would like, I should be happy to send to you. They are generally not too revealing, but they might be of interest in letting you know how the press is treating the J.F.K. assassination.

National Tattler - November 25, 1973 - 10th anniversary of J.F.K. assassination issue.

New Times - April 18, 1975 - Includes 4 frames from Groden copy of Zapruder film.

Newsweek - April 28, 1975 - An insulting and sloppy apology for the Warren Report. I sent Newsweek a letter attacking the article which was answered with a form letter of sorts saying that they were keeping my letter and that they would be covering the story in future issues.

U.S. News + World Report - June 2, 1975 - A surprisingly open-minded article for them.

National Tattler - June 8, 1975 - Article - "New Evidence Crossfire Killed Kennedy in Dallas."

Argosy - July 1975 - A "men's magazine" with a sort of nondescript article whose sole merit is a collection of 12 decent quality frames from the Groden copy of the Zapruder film.

Crawdaddy - A trashy rock magazine which contains, among other things, excerpts from the New Orleans radio interview with Lee Harvey Oswald. Also, there is a reference to yourself as a "somewhat rantankerous gentleman."

In your letter you said you would inform Jim Lesar that I would be available for legal research which he might need done in New York. While I am still not moved into Brooklyn, I will be by August 25th. As of that date, should you wish to reach me to do any work for you I will be at

I hope I may be of some help to you.
Thank you.

Sincerely,
Jerry Kay

P.S. I was wondering what your opinion is of Penn Jones peddling copies of the Zapruder film? Also, do you yourself own a good copy of the film?
